Clinical case discussion: Monday July 24th 18:00-20:00

This class will cover a pediatric case. During the session, the students will receive certain information in order (as usually will be in clinical practice: admission note, labs, etc.) Posteriorly, students will prepare the assessment of the patients and continue in group with the problem list of the patients and make a list of differential diagnoses. The purpose of this format is to teach the students clinical reasoning, learn to make differentials as well as to gain practice on which tests are needed to diagnose the disease that the patients are presenting. Ideally the moderation should be done by students with experience in this format. Ideally for senior students.

第二回 「USMLE 受験対策のための医学英語セミナー」

USMLE class: Wednesday November 8th 18:00-20:00

This class is with the purpose to present the content of how to prepare for the USMLE test. During the class we will cover generalities of the exam as well as go over one or two questions in detail, so then students get the idea of how to get prepared for the test as well as to get familiar with the type of questions of the USMLE. We will cover questions in cardiology for this class. Ideally for senior students.
